DCDC Internship Program Information

About the internship organization:
The City of Goodyear strives to be: 1) a great place to live, work, and raise a family; 2) the biggest small town community in the Valley; 3) a city with healthy lifestyles and commitment to the environment; and
4) a growing community that provides quality opportunities and lifestyles. We will be a world-class organization that contributes to making Goodyear a beautiful, livable, vibrant and sustainable City.

About the internship:
The city would like to determine if there is a way to increase community awareness of water conservation through the development of youth sustainability advocates. The student will need to research youth or school programs if available, contact other municipalities to learn about youth programs, provide content for a conservation program in Goodyear schools, (either middle or high school), and estimate effectiveness/results of community awareness via a youth program. The final deliverable will be a report, poster, and invitation to poster presentation.

Desired Qualifications:
Ideally, the student will have strong communication skills; interest in water municipal water sustainability; creativity; ability to work independently; and interpersonal skills.

Preferred Majors:
Open to all majors. Degrees offering credit include: School of Sustainability (SOS 484), School of Geographical Sciences and Urban Planning (PUP 484), Barrett Honors College (HON 484)

Compensation:
There is a stipend associated with this internship in the amount of $1,350, which is paid in two installments in the spring semester.

Hours Per Week:
135 hours total. 10-12 hours/week during the spring semester

Closing Date:
October 14, 2018
